

Black History Month? African Heritage Month? African Liberation Month?

What's in a Name???

African or Black history means different things to different people, from building a sense of personal empowerment and community recognition to building a movement. Learning about the history of our peoples informs our personal and community identities. But is this enough?

What are the possibilities to define a place for ourselves in the 21st century? What role does the language play? What's in a name?

MC: Dwayne Morgan: Spoken Word artist.

Panelists:

Gerald Horne: Professor of African and Afro-American Studies, University of North Carolina, Chappell Hill; author of From the Barrel of a Gun: The U.S. and the War Against Zimbabwe and Race Woman: The Lives of Shirley Graham Du Bois.

Norman Otis Richmond: News Director at CKLN and a prolific writer with articles appearing in Share, The Buffalo Challenger, Jackson (Mississippi) Advocate and the San Francisco Bay View News.

Modupe Olaogun: Professor of African and postcolonial literatures, Founder and Artistic Director of the AfriCan Theatre Ensemble.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 2003

7:00-9:30 pm • Admission is Free

Note Location

CALIBAN ARTS THEATRE
533 College Street, Suite 304

Programmed by

ST. LAWRENCE CENTRE
FORUM
416-366-1656
<http://forum.stlc.com>

The University of
North Carolina Press
NYU Press

BLACK YOUTH UNITED